

Skip to main content

Acetylcholine Chloride Intraocular Solution (Miochol-E)

??? ??????: 30 ?????2/????? 2017

Infrequent cases of corneal edema, corneal clouding, and corneal decompensation have been reported with the use of intraocular acetylcholine.

Adverse reactions have been reported rarely which are indicative of systemic absorption. These include bradycardia, hypotension, flushing, breathing difficulties and sweating.